Volunteer Hours

Before the pandemic, History Colorado engaged its volunteers in multiple in-person volunteering opportunities.

At a time when History Colorado was forced to close doors in the wake of the pandemic, volunteers continued to engage with History of Colorado in multiple ways.

In November History Colorado participated in Family Volunteer Day as the Head Organizer.

In November 2019, a group of students from the UHL (University Honors and Leadership Program) club at UC Denver helped complete a deep clean of the Pierce McAllister building along with our Facilities team

Our Transcribing Online Archives, which was in the works before COVID, had a total of 177 volunteers with 1,301.58 hours.

Volunteer Voices

“Happy to be volunteering remotely now with the womens’ suffrage transcription project, which keeps me connected to HC. Looking forward to going back to the museum to start new volunteer efforts in the Hart Research Center.”

Our volunteers continued with online Council Meetings.

The Museum of Memory (MoM) initiative started the MoM Youth Internship Program with Fort Garland and had our first interns.

Units with increased volunteer engagement during COVID:

- Curatorial Services & Collections Access
- Learning Experiences/ El Pueblo History Museum
- Museum of Memory/ Ft Garland History Museum and Cultural Center.

We asked our volunteers:

During this unusual time, are you still interested in volunteering with History Colorado?

- Yes
- Maybe
- No

Volunteer Voices

“Staying connected to the volunteers has been rewarding. Staying connected to the museum and how it’s adapting to this unprecedented situation has been very well done. Thank you Emily and HC staff”

AmeriCorps member participation at History Colorado has increased this past year at our Denver location up from one summer only member to eight full year participants. Overall this year we have 25 AmeriCorps members throughout all of our statewide locations.
