“HISTORIC PRESERVATION” AND “HISTORIC PROPERTIES”

Local Preservation is a National Park Service publication series that provides technical information concerning the national historic preservation program established by and administered under the authority of the National Historic Preservation Act (see Local Preservation "What is the National Historic Preservation Act?.")

Two terms need to be defined for reference by readers of the Local Preservation Series, because they are used in the Series in ways that, while consistent with the definitions in the National Historic Preservation Act, could be misleading.

The Act defines historic property or historic resource to mean any prehistoric or historic district, site, building, structure, or object included in, or eligible for inclusion on the National Register, including artifacts, records, and material remains related to such a property or resource.

The Act defines historic preservation or preservation to mean identification, evaluation, recordation, documentation, curation, acquisition, protection, management, rehabilitation, restoration, stabilization, maintenance, research, interpretation, conservation, and education and training regarding the foregoing activities or any combination of the foregoing activities.
