August 1 Is Colorado Day

*At Our Museums
Around the State*

HISTORY Colorado

140TH ANNIVERSARY
1879-2019

ON VIEW NOW

Beer Here! Brewing the New West

A river of beer flows through Colorado's past. Back in the gold rush, saloons were post offices, restaurants, hotels and social clubs. Then Colorado banned alcohol—four years before national Prohibition. By the 1970s, beer was big business again—really big business. Now, homebrewers have gone pro and it seems like there's a brewery on every corner.

See beer-brewing equipment from then to now, a massive bottle-breaker from Prohibition days, the nation's first aluminum beer cans and a wealth of other artifacts from our state's hoppy history. Visit 19th-century saloons, Prohibition-era "drugstores" and the kitchen that brewed up the modern craft beer industry. Stay and enjoy a sampler tray of historic beer styles.

See the back cover for our Historic Styles Brewfest on July 20—get your tickets while they last!

Beer Here! is generously supported by lead sponsors Ball Corporation and Coors Brewing Company.

THROUGH SEPTEMBER 2

Without Borders: Arte Sin Fronteras

In a collaboration with the Northern Río Grande National Heritage Area, Without Borders features artists from southern Colorado, northern New Mexico and beyond who explore the concept of borderlands and what homelands are today. Curated by Leland Chapin, the exhibit showcases diverse art media to expand on the words of philosopher Gloria Anzaldúa: "To survive the Borderlands/you must live sin fronteras/be a crossroads."

Pollinate some giant flowers and step inside a 3-D photo op in Wildflowers, Wild Places.

THROUGH SEPTEMBER 2
Wildflowers, Wild Places

Celebrate summer and explore our huge pop-up installation with giant flowers and beehive. Walk under three inflatable sculptures of Colorado flowers representing the regions of our state: sunflowers for the plains, columbines for the mountains, and a claret cup cactus for the plateau. Collect pollen and pollinate the flowers to create honey. Then, learn about public lands or get a 3-D photo of yourself riding a bumblebee.

POP-UP EXHIBIT!
Colorado Scenic & Historic Byways

Breathtaking color photography showcases Colorado's 26 Scenic and Historic Byways. Colorado's byways unite communities and the stories of their collective past, and these photos capture beautifully the scenery and life experienced by travelers along these roadways. Colorado is the state with the most designated scenic and historic byways in the nation. Come experience for yourself this taste of our one-of-a-kind state!

Denver / Center for Colorado Women's History at the Byers-Evans House Museum

1310 Bannock Street. 303/620-4933, ByersEvansHouseMuseum.org

ON VIEW NOW
Women/Work/Justice

Mary Petrucci fought for workplace freedoms and safety after the Ludlow Massacre of 1914, and Jane Street organized domestic workers through the Housemaids Union in 1917. In the 1930s Marie Greenwood was the first African American teacher in Denver Public Schools, and in the late '60s Lupe Briseño led the Floral Workers Strike, inspiring advocacy for agricultural workers. Meet these amazing women and so many others who paved the way.

2020 WOMEN'S VOTE CENTENNIAL COLORADO

WHAT'S NEW

Honoring the Women's Vote Centennial

In 1893, Colorado became the first state to grant women the vote via state referendum. In 1920, the 19th Amendment granted women the vote nationwide. Former governor John Hickenlooper created the Women's Vote Centennial Commission, which will lead efforts to commemorate 100 years since the 19th Amendment's passage and to recognize women's suffrage in Colorado. Through 2020 the commission, chaired by History Colorado board chair Cathey M. Finlon, will engage Coloradans in the rich history of women's suffrage. With History Colorado's support, the commission aspires to connect with 300,000 Coloradans via programs in all 64 counties. To keep your eye on upcoming programs, go to COWomensCentennial.org.

Shirley Ann Wilson Moore Wins Sudler Award

Every two years, History Colorado presents the Barbara Sudler Award for a book on a western American subject by a female author. The judges have awarded this year's prize to Shirley Ann Wilson Moore for Sweet Freedom's Plains: African Americans on the Overland Trails, 1841–1869. Moore's book tells a powerful migration story from the perspectives of black pioneers. The judges were last round's winner, Dr. Rachel McLean Sailor of the University of Wyoming; Dr. Nicki Gonzales of Regis University and History Colorado's State Historian's Council; and Dr. Rebecca Hunt of the University of Colorado Denver. Moore "expands our understanding of westward migration, of race in the West, and of the African American experience," writes one of the judges. "This book is a gem." See more at HistoryColorado.org/sudler-award.

Arlette Lucero Named Artist in Residence

The History Colorado Center's Art on the Mezzanine initiative has brought Arlette Lucero on as the new Artist in Residence. A Denver native who grew up surrounded by the Chicano movement, Lucero earned a bachelor's degree in fine arts from Colorado State University, teaches art education and is a member of the Chicano Humanities and Arts Council. "My paintings and sculptures are visual poetic expressions of my emotions, feeling and desires," she says. "As a woman, I love to paint beautiful women of timeless ages in endless time." Arlette will paint on site through mid-September, creating murals in honor of three Chicanas. Don't miss this chance to see art in action!

Celebrating Citizenship

Across the state, summer in Colorado is all about popsicles, hikes with the dog and time by the pool. As you gear up to grill hot dogs for the Fourth of July or to celebrate Colorado Day with us on the First of August, we'd like to turn your attention to the special role History Colorado plays in making people who love Colorado new citizens.

Every few months, dozens of people become new US citizens in a naturalization ceremony at the History Colorado Center. We're the only museum in the state that hosts naturalization ceremonies, and we're proud to be able to welcome these newcomers amidst our artifacts of the past and hopes for the future.

Whether your family has been enjoying summers here for as long as you can remember, or if you've only recently joined us, please consider making a charitable donation to support our varied work, including hosting our newest citizens. As a nonprofit organization, we rely on your generosity.

Historic Styles Brewfest

In celebration of the History Colorado Center's newest exhibit, Beer Here! Brewing the New West, 25 breweries will fill the museum atrium with historic brews. Sample recreations of ancient recipes, retired craft classics and popular historic styles. Every beer has a story to tell, and many won't be available anywhere else. Taste them in a commemorative glass along with complimentary pretzels and snacks. Must be 21 or older to attend.

Members $30
